

BRIEFS

9 sophomores receive $2,000 scholarships

Nine high school sophomores have an early start toward paying for their college educations in math, science or engineering.

EnergySolutions has awarded each of them a $2,000 scholarship in a program to encourage them to start thinking about pursuing educations in those fields. They also received Dell computers.

Winners are: Chris Clem at Pasco High; Kameryn Dean at Columbia High in Burbank; Tim Feth at Kiona-Benton City High; Justin Kimsey at River View High in Finley; Katie Lien of Southridge High in Kennewick; Tamar Oostrom of Hanford High of Richland; Timothy Roosendaal of Kennewick High; Sethuran Thevuthasan of Kamiakin High in Kennewick and Sarah Vukelich of Richland High.

The money will be invested until they enter college. They also may compete against scholarship winners in other communities where EnergySolutions does business for additional scholarships worth up to $25,000.

EnergySolutions also has contributed $60,000 to Washington State University Tri-Cities for freshmen scholarships.